Space-age education methods come to Bay-Waveland schools

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Distant Learner program will allow the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District to offer classes that have never before been offered in the area and school officials are calling it "a great move forward."

The classes will be offered through use of a satellite, Spacenet II.

After hearing about the program Thursday night from Dr. Hugh Peck of Mississippi State University, who serves as director of Programs for Research and Evaluation in Public Schools (PREPS), a non-profit consortium of several colleges and educational institutions, the board voted unanimously to participate in the STAR schools section of the program.

Board Member Betty Diboll conveyed the approval of an absent board member, Linda Penrose, who could not attend the meeting but sent a message saying she endorses the Bay-Waveland District's participation.

According to Superintendent of Education Roger Oge, STAR stands for Satellite Transmitted Academic Resources and school districts participating may provide courses for high school or university credits, continuing education credits or in-service training for educators and other professionals.

Oge said one of his goals is to be able to offer courses to the community in general.

Peck, in a telephone interview from Mississippi State, explained that the satellite dish and other equipment can probably be installed for the Bay-Waveland district in March, with testing scheduled for April.

In-service training can begin immediately after it is activated, but credit courses will not be offered until the beginning of the next term because they must be compatible with regular class schedules.

The equipment includes an eight-to-10-foot satellite dish, television sets, an interactive phone hook-up, computers, printers and an electronic chalkboard that will allow the teacher at the remote location to see what the students here have written on it.

Although the program involves mostly live classes to facilitate interaction between students and teachers, programs may be taped by the school for later use.

Peck said the project is one of several being funded by a U.S. Department of Education grant of $20 million. PREPS was one of only four partnerships funded, Peck said, and is expected to cost about $17,500 during the two-year grant period.

The network itself will provide the training for the facilitator, the in-classroom teacher at the local school. The superintendent or the principal of the building where the receiving site is located serves as the local program director.

Oge said that at this point, it is likely that Bay Senior High will be the site. Site selection is left to the local district, but must be in a place accessible to both students and faculty.

About 30 Mississippi school districts will participate in PREPS this year through the consortium. In addition, another 25 will be added during the second year of the grant, Peck said.

He added that with similar programs at University of Mis-

Committees approve memorial, candidacy bills

BY DENA BISNETTE

Two bills being supported by State Representative J.P. Compretta have passed through Mississippi House committees and are expected to be considered in the Senate next week.

In a telephone interview from Jackson, Compretta stated that a bill he introduced, House Bill 705, gives authority for the creation of the Mississippi Vietnam Veterans Memorial Committee.

The committee will be in charge of soliciting donations for construction of a memorial to the state's Vietnam-era veterans. A site for the memorial has already been provided at Point Cadet, Biloxi, and a competition for the design is being conducted among Mississippi State University architecture students, Compretta added.

The representative said the other bill, House Bill 819, deals with a problem that occurred during the recent special election for Hancock County supervisor.

Hilda Bourg, one of the candidates, had recently resigned from the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee. Bourg had to go to court to prove that she was not restricted from running under statutes prohibiting election commissioners from running for office.

The Hancock County Election Commission, acting on the advice of its attorney, had denied her candidacy on the basis of two Mississippi Supreme Court decisions that had barred committee members

Post Office unveiling restored Reynaud mural

BY D.C. HARVILL

A Depression-era painting that once graced a wall the old Bay St. Louis Post Office has been restored and now will grace the new Post Office on U.S. 90, where it will be unveiled during an "open house" Tuesday.

The mural, a depiction of a fishing scene, was painted in 1938 by the late Coast artist Louis Reynaud under the Works Progress Administration.

The relocation and restoration work was conducted by Phyllis Hudson, a New Orleans art conservator.

Post Master Tom Hill said he does not know exactly how much it cost to save the mural, because the financial dealings were directly between Hudson and the Postal Service's Memphis District Office. He did say, however, that it was probably in excess of $3,400.

During the open house, refreshments will be served and door prizes are to be awarded at intervals. The public is invited.

According to Hill, Postal Service divisional staff members from New Orleans and staff from the Gulfport Managerial Center have been invited to attend the open house.

There will be no speeches, but Mrs. Nancy Gex of Waveland, who has been instrumental in having the mural preserved, will say a few words at the unveiling, Hill said.

"The Postal Service has an ongoing program to save this type of art work. If the service doesn't have a use for it, it is donated to the Smithsonian or to other government agencies who do have a use for it. Usually they try to have it restored and relocated to the new facility," Hill said.

ON PATROL

Rape

A Waveland man was arrested by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department Thursday on sex charges.

Paul G. Campo Jr., 35, 208 St. Joseph St. is accused of committing rape and sexual battery against a female under over the age of 14. The crimes allegedly occurred over a period of several months.

Campo has been released on a $5,000 professional bond.

Mystery Drug

A jacket forgotten at a Diamondhead business Friday night led to the arrest of a Missouri couple on drug charges.

Donald C. Wallace Jr., 39, of Lebanon, Missouri, and Leslie Ann Fohn, 22, of Springfield, Missouri were both arrested at approximately 5:30 p.m. on charges of a controlled substance.

According to Sheriff's Investigator Glen Strong, Wallace's jacket was given to Diamondhead security officers after it was left at the business. When Sheriff's Deputy George Burleson, who was working as a security guard, searched the jacket for identification he found several small packets of a controlled substance.

As a result of the discovery, both subjects were arrested shortly afterward.

The substance is believed to be crystal methamphetamine, but will be sent to the Mississippi Crime Lab for positive identification.

The case is being investigated by the Sheriff's Department and Investigator Robert Tartevelle of the Waveland Police Department.

The joint investigation is a result of an agreement between the two agencies to try to control illegal drug activity, Strong said.

Coke Buster

A drug investigation that resulted in 11 arrests on drug-selling charges last week has netted three more people.

Waveland police officers arrested Charles Wesley Bruns III, 28, of Dufour Lane, Waveland, on Tuesday. Bruns has been charged with one count of sale of marijuana.

The arrest resulted from an investigation Waveland Police Investigators Robert Tartavouille and Sandra Henley began in November.

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department added two more arrests on Monday and Tuesday.

On Tuesday, Cardie Parsons Jr., 29, of Slidell, La., was arrested and charged with one count of sale of marijuana.

Kent Bell, 30, of 207 Easy Street, Bay St. Louis, was arrested Monday and charged with one count of sale of cocaine.

Robert Lee Harvey, 21, 130 Cathy Drive, Bay St. Louis was arrested Thursday on two counts sale of a controlled substance, cocaine. His bond has been set at $15,000. He also is being held for Waveland on one count sale of a controlled substance.

The investigation which led to those two arrests was a four-month undercover operation headed by Sheriff's Investigator Glen Strong.

Bell is being held in the Hancock County Jail without bond because he is also charged with a probation violation.

Bruns and Parsons are being held on $5,000 bond each.

Bay High students invited in Soviet exchange program

Roger D. Oge, superintendent of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland Schools, announced that Bay St. Louis is one of the only three cities in Mississippi invited to participate in The People to People Friendship Caravan, the largest student exchange program ever to take place between the United States and the Soviet Union.

High school students who apply and are selected will spend three weeks during the summer of 1989 traveling throughout the Soviet Union.

The Friendship Caravan will be both a symbol and an event, with its motor coaches decorated in red, white, and blue, with state seals and flags of the U.S. and U.S.S.R. flags placed on their sides. It will bring a comprehensive exhibit of life in the United States to more than 30 Soviet cities, towns and villages.

Each itinerary will include every facet of Soviet life: visits to educational institutions, government offices, factories, modern cities, and rural communities. Student ambassadors will spend time on a cooperative farm and with a typical Soviet family.

They will visit youth camps, hold panel discussions with Soviet students, and host typical activities, such as cook-outs and sing-alongs.

The aim of the program is for student ambassadors to get to know the Soviet people as individuals, as a culture and as a political system, and to share typical American values, attitudes and concerns with the Soviets.

The tradition of the People to People Friendship Caravan reaches back to 1956, when President Dwight D. Eisenhower founded People to People, based upon his belief that private citizens, reaching out in friendship to the people of other nations, could make a significant contribution to world peace.

People to People was administered by the State Department until 1961, when it became a private, nonprofit organization. Six U.S. Presidents, including President Rea-

Trim fat from meat and remove skin from poultry before cooking and eating.

To reduce saturated fat:
Replace saturated fats with unsaturated ones. Vegetable oils with the highest polyunsaturated fat content are safflower, sunflower, corn, soybean and cottonseed oil.

Vegetable oils from palm kernel, coconut and palm contain a large proportion of saturated fats. Avoid or use these very sparingly. Many processed foods contain one or more of these, so read nutrition labels.

Choose lower fat foods such as lean meats, fish, skinned poultry, and skim or low-fat milk, yogurt and cheese.

Many margarines are lower in saturated fats and higher in unsaturated fats than butter.

Incorporate changes into your typical diet gradually. If changes are too drastic, your loved ones may not think the gift is so special but, more importantly, they may not adopt the new eating style.

Have a healthy heart for Valentine's Day

In Victorian times, flowers were the focus of St. Valentine's Day. A gift of white roses meant, "I love you." Flowers still have special meaning on this special day, but saying "I love you" year-round with the gift of a healthy heart is priceless.

Diet has always been known to influence our health but today we understand better more of the specifics of how diet influences health. Diets that contain excessive amounts of fat, especially saturated fat, tend to increase the chance of developing heart disease.

Reducing total fat and saturated fat in the diet can help to give that priceless gift of love—a healthy heart. Begin by working the following guidelines into your diet.

Mississippi and a smaller project through Mississippi Educational Television, up to 125 districts could be participating in some kind of district learner program by the time the project is over.

The entire distant learner concept was originally organized for areas like Bay St. Louis, which are not close enough to urban centers or universities to offer the more diversified curricula satellite teaching makes available.

The program will be evaluated about twice each year. At the end of the research program, the Bay-Waveland district will be offered the opportunity to keep the equipment and continue working with the consortium.

Oge said the research has four basic goals—validating the Mississippi curriculum structure, establishing and validating outcome measures of schools to determine exactly what is the measure of a good school system, evaluating the quality of indicators currently in use, and to gather research material related to equity and excellence to try to design a series of options that will allow school systems to develop more equitable delivery systems.

Peck said most of the programs will originate in San Antonio, Texas, but those specific to Mississippi will be generated through Mississippi State.

Oge said the schedule of available course offerings will be examined over the summer and those to be offered in the Bay-Waveland district will be selected from a book "about three inches thick."

Through the consortium, the district will obtain courses from California State University; Western Illinois University; Mississippi State; North Carolina Department of Public Education; University of Alabama; an organization known as Education Service Center's Region 20, which specializes in satellite teaching; a cooperative effort of Texas Educational Agency and the Illinois State Board of Education, which will supply a few in-service programs but is mostly involved in site selection; and TI-IN Network, the major supplier of the in-service training and enrichment programs for the consortium.

Courses available include Latin, French, German, Spanish, English as a second language, Russian, Japanese, marine science, astronomy, linear algebra, probability statistics, calculus, trigonometry and elementary analysis.

Most of the language and math courses are offered on several levels, and some that are already being taught in the Bay-Waveland district can be enhanced through the available material, Oge explained.

If the equipment is set up where enough computers are available, two years of computer science will be available.

Oge said it will cost the district less than $7,000 per year to add the courses, and about $250 for each student if the course is taken for credit. There would also be no need or expense for additional staff.

"This will be a major advantage for us," Oge said.

"This is an expansion into curriculum offerings that could not be imagined for a system 10 times this size and the bringing to the schools and community of in-service programs specifically directed to the needs of the people involved is the most exciting thing that has happened in this school district or any other with which I have been associated."

Peck said he initially contacted the Bay-Waveland district because he knew Oge and his work in other areas and felt he would be interested in such a program.

Diboll said the board supported Oge in his efforts to have the district selected, but said the project was actually obtained "through our superintendent's reputation as a leader."

"With this, I think our prediction can come true that this will be the best school district in Mississippi," the board president said.

"I was impressed (with Dr. Peck's presentation.) I never thought that we would be involved in something like this."

"It is a great move forward."

Essay contest on parenting sponsored by Blue Cross

The third annual March of Dimes Essay Contest sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Mississippi is now in progress.

This essay contest is open to all 7th through 12th grade students. Entitled "When Will I Be Ready To Be A Parent?", this contest is designed to make students aware of the responsibilities of being a good parent and the problems of adolescent parenthood.

Judging will be based on grammar (correct grammar, spelling and sentence structure—style (writing technique); and content (insight into the factors involved in being a parent, recognition of the problems of adolescent parenthood and the medical risks to infants born to adolescents).

Seven local winners will be selected from each of two categories—7th through 9th grades and 10th through 12th grades. Each local winner will receive a $100 savings bond and the state winners (one from each category) will each receive a $500 savings bond donated by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Mississippi.

Deadline for entries is Friday, March 10, and should be sent to March of Dimes, 4800

McWillie Circle, Suite 4A, Jackson, MS 39206.

Local winners will be announced March 31 and state winners will be announced at an awards luncheon on Apr. 19.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

A very important event will be held on Wednesday of this week in Bay St. Louis.

The big event will be a Hancock County Blood Bank drawing by the American Red Cross at the American Legion Post on Green Meadow Road from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Regular donors will want to note the drive will start an hour earlier and also end an hour earlier than at previous ones at the Legion post.

John Rutherford reports a quota of 100 units has been set for this drawing, so this will mean there will be a need for many donors.

We know in recent weeks there have been residents who have used several units of blood and supplies are low.

We know of one resident who was using one unit (pint) of blood every two hours and he reports he was glad when they told him that six units of blood had been set aside for him.

Donors can be anyone who is physically able and 17 years old or older.

We are hoping there will be a large turnout of donors.

This is the time of year when many folks begin to plan their Spring vegetable gardens.

Many try to begin getting their ground ready by turning when possible and getting their rows ready.

Some begin by planting seeds such as tomato and pepper in small pots to get a little extra head start. Of course that means taking them inside quite frequently.

This cold spell may be the last of the season, yet we could have several others even as late as in April.

We know some folks who begin planting red potatoes on February 14.

I will be getting my ground ready soon to plant a small plot of vegetables at home.

I never got around to plant one last year and hope to be able to do so this year.

I really enjoy those garden fresh tomatoes.

Tragedy in the life of a child—it's testimony to the suffering, death and carnage that continues on Mississippi's highways. A seat belt law could make a difference. Last year 757 people died in traffic accidents and 94 percent of these victims were not buckled up. Had they been, many lives would have been saved—maybe even Lisa's mother. Why can't Mississippi join the ranks of 32 other states who are saving lives? Mississippians say they favor a seat belt law. So get behind our lawmakers, now. Time is short and the stakes are high. Just ask Lisa.

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor
Ray Mabus

Most Mississippians favor reorganization

Who said Mississippians are not interested in reorganizing state government?

That is one of the criticisms of my proposal to reduce the size of government to make it work better and save money.

Everything I have seen shows that most Mississippians are strongly in favor of reorganizing or restructuring state government. They think state government can do a better job of delivering services. So do I.

A recent statewide newspaper poll showed that 65 percent of Mississippians believe state government should be reorganized. We can either turn our backs on the people, and pass along our problems to future generations of Mississippians—or, we can face up to it boldly and decisively now.

Not only does the public at large believe that state government needs to be streamlined, so does the business community.

A business group recently surveyed about 400 executives of Mississippi companies. Nearly 75 percent of these company executives said state government—as it is now set up—hurts the economic development of the state.

That is a message too powerful to ignore because these are the people who provide jobs to hundreds of thousands of Mississippians.

In fact, support for reorganizing state government has come from every corner of our state.

This is more than a matter of polls. Consider what some of the following organizations have had to say about reorganization:

"There will be cries from the bureaucracy resistant to change. There always are and always will be. But the time for reorganization is past due. The governor's proposal would be a significant step toward a more efficient and accountable state government," The Clarion-Ledger has stated.

And the Natchez Democrat had this to say: "The governor's plan should receive the overwhelming support of Mississippi residents because it makes good business sense and saves money in the process. And that should be the overriding goal of any change made in a bureaucracy such as Mississippi's state government."

Down on the Coast the Biloxi Sun Herald said, "The bottom line...is to make state government work better and save money. If legislators can put together an acceptable form of reorganization that is a measurable step in that direction, they will win plaudits from Mississippians who voiced their desire for progressive change in 1987 elections."

The Mississippi House has passed what is a good start toward a true reorganization of state government. It is now up to all Mississippians to see that the entire Legislature approves the best possible bill to reduce the size of state government and make it work better.

REPORT FROM THE SENATE

By Senator
Gene Taylor

By Senator Gene Taylor

More than 230 Senate bills survived the committee process, and the full Senate is presently in the process of voting on these measures. The deadline for favorable passage to send these bills on to the House of Representatives for consideration is Feb. 9.

Some of these issues which the Senate acted on during the week included Tidelands regulation, financial responsibility required in motor vehicle accidents, the cap on raising ad valorem taxes, a state lottery, and school district fees for instructional materials.

In an effort to help resolve the Tidelands ownership dispute, the Senate passed S.B. 2780. The bill, as it passed the Senate, should calm the fears of those Hancock County residents who feared the loss of their homes and property as a result of the Supreme Court decision in the Cinque Bambini case.

This requires the Secretary of State to draw a preliminary map of Public Trust Tidelands, using as the boundary the current mean high water line where shoreline is undeveloped. In developed areas the boundary is the determinable mean high water line as of 1973, the effective date of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Act.

The Secretary of State would determine which, if any, property owners are in violation of the public trust, and if any dispute cannot be settled within six months, the case may be taken to chancery court.

The bill further authorizes the Secretary of State to lease the lands for up to 40 years with an option to renew for an additional 25 years. The revenue would be placed in a "Public Trust Tidelands Fund" to be distributed pro rata to the local taxing authorities to replace lost ad valorem taxes. Any remaining funds would be used by the Bureau of Marine Resources for tidelands management or improvement programs.

One bill, which the Senate adopted, seeks to increase protection for motorists involved in accidents. It does not require mandatory liability insurance; however, it does increase the amount a motorist at fault in an accident must show as proof of ability to pay for damages for liability whether that be by liability insurance or other means.

The bill requires a minimum of coverage or proof of ability to pay for damages in the amounts of $25,000 for bodily injury or death of one person; $50,000 for bodily injury or death of two or more persons; and $20,000 for injury to or destruction of property.

The same minimums apply to uninsured motorist coverage. The bill also increases the penalty for failure to provide proof of financial responsibility.

I feel the Senate made a mistake when it adopted a bill which removes from law the provision that counties can only increase ad valorem taxes by 10 percent per year.

The ad valorem taxes that you pay is determined by your local governing authorities. It is a local decision based on local needs. The present law allows local government to increase taxes by a certain amount, but protects the citizens from unlimited tax increases.

I opposed this change to the law because I felt the citizens statewide needed protection from unlimited increases in their ad valorem taxes.

A bill, which failed to pass the Senate, would have set up the mechanism for the operation of a state lottery if and when a constitutional amendment is approved by the voters which would allow such a lottery.

In past years, amendments allowing the citizens of the state to vote on having a lottery have failed to win approval in the Legislature in part because some said that they wanted to know just how such a lottery would be operated and regulated. Therefore, this year, this bill with the mechanics was presented first in the Senate. The bill would have placed the responsibility for the lottery directly under the State Tax Commission.

The income from ticket sales would have been spent as follows: 45 percent for prizes and at least 30 percent going to the state to be divided equally between higher education and secondary and elementary education.

I voted for the bill. Many Mississippians are presently participating in lotteries sponsored by other states. I feel that Mississippi should get the benefits of this money as well as attract out-of-state monies for a lottery here.

The issue is not dead yet, because a constitutional amendment calling for an election on the lottery issue is pending in the House of Representatives.

One bill which I helped to defeat would have allowed school districts to charge fees for instructional materials and supplies, but not textbooks.

The Attorney General recently ruled that school districts could not require students to pay fees such as for workbooks. I felt that it violates the right to a free public education.

Some of the bills which we are voting on this week include: S.B. No. 2390: A bill that I authored to establish the William Winter Teacher Scholarship Program. This will provide loans to students who intend to become teachers.

The loans will be converted to scholarships for those who render services as certified teachers in critical teacher shortage area or subject area during a prescribed period of time.

S.B. No. 2514: Economic Development Educational Facility Act. This would allow school districts where there is the potential for significant economic development by the creation or expansion of major industry to apply for up to $1 million in matching funds from the state to help in the construction and improvement of public school facilities.

This could be a good tool in recruiting industry in that it would enable us to show funds available for improving schools where needed.

S.B. No. 2232: Allow state courts to permit wiretapping if there is probable cause to believe it will provide evidence of violation of the drug laws.

B.B. No. 2340: Require reporting of AIDS-related deaths to the State Department of Health.

S.B. No. 2285: Prohibit insurance companies from requiring a particular repair shop be used in order to pay a claim.

S.B. No. 2267: Require reporting of drug overdoses by physicians, hospitals and health care facilities.

I would be glad to hear your comments on any legislation during the year, and you may write to me at the Mississippi State Senate, P.O. Box 1018, Jackson, MS 39215 or call 359-3770 and I will return your call as soon as possible.

'Free Enterprise Games' encourage economic expertise

Mississippi's students have the opportunity to win honors for their schools and, at the same time, gain knowledge of America's free enterprise system.

The American Enterprise Center, along with Chevron U.S.A., is sponsoring the fourth annual Free Enterprise Games, which allows teams of students from all over the state to compete against one another based on their understanding of the nation's economic system.

The competition is divided into two regional levels, North and south. The winner of each region will meet in the final round of competition to determine an overall state champion, which will take place in Jackson in April.

South Mississippi competition will be held Feb. 21 in Hattiesburg. North Mississippi competition will take place March 7 on the campus of Mississippi State University in Starkville.

Regional winners will receive a trophy accompanied by a $100 cash award for the high school represented.

School teams are to be made up of five students (seniors and juniors) with two sponsors—a teacher and a business person from the community.

"All persons on a team will contribute to the school's score, so it is important to bring all seven people to the games," said Peggy Howard, director of the American Enterprise Center.

Howard emphasized the importance of obtaining a business sponsor with a serious interest in the free enterprise system.

Interested schools may contact Peggy Howard at the American Enterprise Center, P.O. Box 23276, Jackson, MS 39225-3276. The telephone number is 1-969-0022. There is no registration fee for participants.

Side Street Crossings

By Dena Bisnette

This week, I finally got one of my major goals in life accomplished—I got a washing machine.

After years of hoarding quarters to pump into coin-operated machines at washeterias, laundromats or laundrettes (which name they use seems to be strictly on the whim of the owners), I can now pump them into something else, like the copy machine at school.

After years of scheduling laundry trips between the hours of 7 a.m. and 10 p.m., preferably around mealtimes so I can get enough dryers, I can wash whatever I want, whenever I want.

This great event is thanks to my mother-in-law, Nellie, who understands. I know she understands because for Joe's birthday this year, her gift to him was enough to provide the downpayment on the machine. I think it's wonderful that she doesn't want her son to have dirty socks.

I honestly believe that one of the major goals an American woman forms when she marries, whether she'll admit it or not, is to have her own washing machine.

Single women probably have the same goal, but somehow when I was single I didn't mind as much. Maybe that's because the twin bed sheets I had then were only half as heavy as the double sheets I'm dragging into the laundrette from the car now.

Maybe it was because nylon panties only take half as long in the dryer as cotton jockey shorts.

I've been using quarters to wash ever since I was in college and moved into a dormitory that had a laundry room down the hall.

It was hot in there; it was our version of the steamroom at the health spa, a major exercise work-out for those of us who lived at the far end of the second floor and only washed clothes when we were down to our last pair of socks, and was guaranteed to make the straightest hair kinky.

It was a grand place to meet the guys from the next dorm over, which had a laundry room of its own, but the girls never found out about it.

Guys thought it was a great favor when you saved them from turning their underwear pink by stopping them from throwing a brand new red shirt, tags and all, into a washer full of hot water and Fruit of the Looms. Sometimes they'd repay the favor in some way, like dancing with you when you showed up at the mixer without a date.

It was also a great place to sit in skimpy clothing (all you could stand) and read Shakespeare, because nobody wanted to stay and distract you, and if a guy came over and saw you with a book, he knew he wouldn't have a chance that day.

When I lived in the same town as my parents, Mom let me use her machine because my attic apartment had no washer-dryer hook-ups. I did my laundry when I went over for Sunday dinner and our weekly gossip session, but it was like a laundromat because I was still always driving around with a load of either clean or dirty laundry in the car.

When I moved again, my new apartment didn't have hook-ups either so it was back to hoarding quarters. After a few tries I found a nice clean place that wasn't real crowded on Sunday afternoons. Oddly enough, I discovered one of my better news sources there.

He was a man of position in my news coverage area and I never expected to see him in a washeteria. He was divorced, and I guess his wife got custody of the washing machine. Besides, he not only gave good news tips, but had an excellent sense of humor that helped pass the time between "fill" and "spin."

I finally got an apartment in a complex where a laundry room was eventually built. They gave me a key and my dog used to go with me. Sometimes I went to my old place, though, just to get out of the apartment.

After my husband Joe and I got together, we pooled our resources to do laundry. How romantic. I was washing his shirts, he was trying to figure out how to hang up my skirts and it was like a flashback to a bad Sunday afternoon date at U.S.M., but at least there was somebody to help me carry the stuff.

One day it finally occurred to me—this business of washing the sheets in the bathtub at 2 a.m. after the puppy accidentally throws up on the bed is for the birds.

Besides, if I ever get a decent-looking car, I can't go riding around with soap powder spilling into the floorboards. That would make me look too working-class, and it's okay to be working-class (so far I haven't been anything else) but it's not fashionable to look that way.

Joe and Nellie, thanks for the washing machine. You have no idea how much it means to me.

Now, maybe I can get to work on that car—the one that doesn't look too working class.

Republicans plan regional meeting

Area Republicans have scheduled a regional meeting on Wednesday, Feb. 15 at West-side Community Center in Gulfport at 7 p.m.

Captain Bob Engram, spokesman for the Harrison County Republican Party, stated that the purpose of the regional meetings is to urge volunteers who were involved in last year's elections to remain a part of the Republican party functions, and build a strong grass-roots base for the upcoming judicial and municipal elections.

The public is invited and urged to join local Republicans at this meeting. Leaders of the Republican Party both from the Republican National Committee and the Mississippi Republican Party, will attend.

Bills

from running because they had been involved in the election preparations.

Bourg was allowed to run under a ruling by Circuit Judge James Thomas. She made it into the run-off election but came in second.

Bourg, who is currently director of the Hancock County Recreation Department, said she understands that there is a similar bill in the state senate.

What version of the bill is approved will be a major factor in her decision whether or not to rejoin the executive committee, said Bourg.

"I've been asked," she explained, adding that to her understanding, the original version of the bill would have prohibited an executive committee member from running for office within a year after resignation.

Resignation would have had to be by Jan. 1.

"That would not have worked. You can't tell what might happen in a year. Somebody could die in office," Bourg said.

According to Compretta, the current version was introduced by Isiah Fredericks of Gulfport and allows executive committee members to automatically resign as soon as they declare their candidacy for elective office.

Bourg said she is pleased with the Fredericks version, stating, "Now I know the executive committee will be able to maintain qualified people."

She explained that her original disqualification as a supervisor candidate had resulted in at least two resignations from the county's Democratic executive committee and one, to her knowledge, from the Republican executive committee.

She said there are "just so many differences" between executive committee members and election commissioners, who are themselves elected to office, that she "cannot understand how the 1890 Constitution was allowed to remain that way so long."

Post 58 Volunteer Fire Dept. installs new officers

The members of Post 58 Volunteer Fire Department welcomed their new board of officers at the annual meeting Feb. 2.

More than 187 members were in attendance, and special guests were Jay March, county fire marshal; Lisa Coward, county supervisor; Ray Prentiss, Bay St. Louis district commissioner; and Beanie and Carolyn Zoener, BaySide Volunteer Fire Department.

Post 58 has signed up 180 members and nine new firefighters so far this year and hopes to have many more join soon. Anyone in the district who hasn't joined and wishes to, may call 255-3973.

Anyone wishing to sign up as a firefighter may call 255-3653, or may attend the next meeting. Meetings are the first Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. at the American Legion Post 58 Hwy.

603. The new fire station is next door with work still in progress.

Baldenhofer painting donated to HMC

"A picture paints a thousand words." We've heard it, read it, and maybe even seen it in an artist's handiwork.

Artists in Hancock County have as much to "say" on canvas as artists in Paris, and Carl Baldenhofer is certainly no exception.

Baldenhofer, 86, has graced many walls with his variety of paintings, all holding a somewhat nostalgic air.

"My three favorite subjects to paint are old houses, old steam trains and boats," Baldenhofer said. "These things have such character."

Last week, Baldenhofer made Hancock Medical Center the proud recipient of one of his original paintings which has been proudly displayed in the hospital's lobby.

"I donated it in appreciation for the encouragement and kindness (my wife) has received during her stay here," Baldenhofer said.

He said he works on one oil painting "on and off" for several months, and he recalls this particular painting taking about 30 hours to complete.

"There's a lot of detail there, he said, referring to the 30-inch painting of a colonial mansion which he says was probably built around 1850.

"I think it still stands today on the Mississippi River around Lusher, La., just south of Baton Rouge. But I painted it from an old black and white photo."

Baldenhofer is originally from Punxsatowney, Penn. and owned a business in New Orleans for 46 years. He moved to Jordan in 1966, and to Waveland after Hurricane Camille in 1969. He has lived in Waveland since that time painting and teaching art to others.

"I teach classes at the Senior Citizens' Center and at the old school building on Coleman Avenue three days a week," he said. Baldenhofer's classes at the Senior Citizens' Center are held on Mondays and Wednesdays for five hours each day. Cost for these classes is $3.00 plus materials. Classes at the school building are from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. every Saturday morning. Cost is $4.00 per lesson and all materials are supplied.

"I have paintings in Germany, England, Mexico and Canada," Baldenhofer said. He said he has painted about 150 oil works over the years, and about half of these he has given away.

Baldenhofer and his wife Lelia have one son, Thomas, who is also presently residing in Waveland.

CARL BALDENHOFER displays the oil painting of a colonial mansion he recently donated to Hancock Medical Center.

NASA, state announce science literacy program

The Governor's Office, NASA Headquarters, the John C. Stennis Space Center and the State Department of Education will announce a major program of public involvement and education on the Gulf Coast at a press conference at 1 p.m. Feb. 17 at the Broadwater Beach Hotel in Biloxi.

The NASA Community Involvement Program, called "Coast Encounters: A Space Age Adventure in Science Literacy for the Mississippi Gulf Coast," will be conducted in the counties of Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River Apr. 16 through May 5.

Participating in the press conference will be Mississippi's First Lady Julie Mabius; Stennis Space Center Director Roy Estess; Larry Bilbrough of NASA's Educational Affairs Division in Washington, D.C.; Apollo astronaut and Gulfport native Stuart Roosa; and Angie Brown, eighth-grade student from Long Beach who has been involved in various NASA educational programs.

Andrew Cutler, president and chief executive officer of Gulf Coast Business Services Corp. and member of the Community Involvement Program steering committee, will serve as moderator at the press conference.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Pass Christian Garden Club

Richard Gregory, president of the Gulfport Camellia Club, brought a basket of beautiful camellias of various varieties and color to the Pass Christian Garden Club meeting on Feb. 2.

He gave a talk on how to plant, fertilize and care for them. Afterwards, camellias were given to members.

Meeting concluded with refreshments served by the hostesses of the day.

Next business meeting will be on March 2 at the Hancock Bank Civic center 11 a.m.

Ladies Auxiliary Veterans World War I

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans World War I, USA No. 2537 was held at the American Legion Home, Bay St. Louis at 3 p.m. Jan. 26.

The meeting was called to order by President Fallo; opening prayer by Chaplain Kathy Adam, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

The following guests were introduced: Lena Dedman, past department president; Bess Haverstrod, chaplain, Gulfport; Virginia Barnes, department vice president; Bertie Walker, past department president.

National president Julia Dickson's message in the Torch was read. Fallo spoke on the importance of life membership in the organization.

The upcoming state convention was discussed. It will be held at the Best Western Motel in Gulfport May 11 and 12.

Vice president Genevieve Cole was cited for her outstanding work with the veterans in the Gulfport Veterans Hospital. An Easter party is being planned for them. Clothes for the veterans were requested. A Valentine card signed by the members was to be sent to the veterans as suggested by Ann Landers. A lovely meal followed.

Submitted by Una B. Harris.

Personnel Administrators

The next meeting of the Harrison/Hancock chapter of the American Society of Personnel Administrators will be Thursday, Feb. 16, at noon at the Western Sizzlin' in Gulfport.

Guest speaker will be Ellen Dyas from Parkside Lodge in Mobile. The topic will be "Employee Assistance Program". Anyone in the personnel profession interested in joining may pick up an application at the meeting.

Leukemia Society

To date, more than 3300 volunteers throughout Mississippi have offered to serve as neighborhood chairmen in the second annual March Against Leukemia. These volunteers will go door-to-door during March, distributing literature and raising money to support the programs of the Leukemia Society of America.

Presently, the Leukemia Society supports 210 scientists at 86 research centers. The Society also offers financial aid to victims of leukemia, Hodgkin's lymphoma, and multiple myeloma. Currently, 240 patients in Mississippi are enrolled for assistance.

For more information on how you can help the Leukemia Society or how the society can help you, contact the Mississippi Office, Leukemia Society of America, P.O. Box 4956, Jackson, MS 39296; phone 1-982-5334.

Gulf Coast Newcomers

At the February 14 monthly meeting of the Gulf Coast Newcomers Club, Ginger Boutwell will present a program on color analysis.

A friendship hour at 11 a.m. will precede the noon meeting at the Best Western Beach View Inn in Gulfport.

Reservations can be made at the meeting for a wine and cheese party to be held on February 17 in the home of Merle and Robert Jeffares.

The monthly bridge party will be held at 9:30 a.m. on February 21 at the Best Western. Reservations can be made through Catherine Rhodes. The date for the monthly craft meeting is February 28.

There will be a covered dish luncheon hosted by the outgoing board members and chairpersons in the home of Marge Justice in Ocean Springs on March 7, honoring the newly elected board members and chairpersons.

Any woman who has moved to the Gulf Coast during the past three years is eligible for membership in the club. For further information please call Marge Justice, 875-9310 or Leila Cassidy, 868-8503.

Diamondhead Business and Professional Association

Officers and directors for the 1989 term were recently elected by the Diamondhead Business and Professional Association.

Serving this year will be C. R. Sayre, Coast Delta Realty Inc., president; Bobby Parker, Moore and Powell, vice president; Sharon Jane, Hancock Bank, treasurer; and Carol Beard, Coast Delta Realty Inc., secretary.

Directors elected are Steve Planchard, Hancock Bank; Susan Ritten, Coast Delta Realty Inc.; Howard Peters, Century 21 of Diamondhead; Scott Warfield, Warfield/Edric; and Clarice Gustin, Diamondhead Country Club marketing director.

The Business and Professional Association meets the fourth Thursday of each month at 8 a.m. Any professional or retired professional in the Diamondhead community is more than welcome to join.

Firms from surrounding counties which join are allowed two memberships for the $50 yearly dues. The yearly dues for an individual (professional) and employees of a member firm are $15.

At present, the membership of the Diamondhead Business and Professional Association stands at 106 members.

Two major projects by the DHB&P Association are presently underway. An extensive landscaping and coordinated planting plan is to begin on Feb. 15. Landscaping of the Diamondhead commercial area from the Interstate at the Chevron Station through the Aloha Drive and Kalani Drive locations to Diamondhead Drive East will be a tremendous asset to both the business and private sections of this lovely Gulf Coast community. The above plans are Phase I of the project with two other phases to follow.

A 'Showcase Home' is under construction by the association, the proceeds of which will be donated to the Landscaping Fund. Area craftsmen and building suppliers are cooperating by donating supplies or labor to this endeavor.

Diamondhead organizations such as Property Owners Association, Garden Club, Newcomers Club, AARP, the Community Association and others are enthusiastic in their support of the landscaping plans. Many individuals are also eager to assist by donating Memorial Trees.

All firms who do business in the Diamondhead community are encouraged to become a part of the Diamondhead Business and Professional Association. For information as to membership, please call Steve Planchard, 255-2660 or Coast Delta Realty 255-9188.

Hancock Women's Club

The Hancock Women's Club held its monthly meeting Thursday, Feb. 9 at the Cajun Cuisine Restaurant in Waveland. There were 27 members and the guest, Marge Jones, present.

The nominating committee presented a slate of officers and other nominations were accepted from the floor. Elected were Marie Braselman, president; Nathalie Miller, vice-president; Theda Fischer, secretary; and Joanne Casselberry, treasurer.

The membership voted to donate $100 to the Hancock County Sheriff's Boys' and Girls' Ranches.

Members were urged to attend the tree-planting ceremony on Friday, Feb. 10 at the Hancock Medical Center. A tree will be planted in memory of Roger T. Harnett, recently deceased husband of Hancock Women's Club member Lillian Harnett, with a marker placed at the site.

Fun and Games Day will be Wednesday, Feb. 22 at 1 p.m. at the home of Julia Loup, 620 Central Avenue, Waveland. Po-Ke-No will be played. Mabel Ladner and Marge Thomas will provide refreshments.

Loraine Townsend was the winner of the door prize. Louis Cripple, president, closed the meeting with the reading of a prayer.

The next meeting will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, March 9 at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, at which time the newly elected officers will be installed.

Professional Secretaries

The Gulf Coast Chapter of Professional Secretaries International will hold its regular monthly meeting at 6 p.m. on Thursday, February 16, at the Biloxi Mississippi Power District Office, 333 Washington Loop, Biloxi.

Professional Secretaries International is the world's leading organization for secretaries, promoting competence and recognition for those in the profession and provides opportunities for continuing education and personal development.

Secretaries interested in the Professional Secretaries International organization can contact Avis O'Hara at 865-5784 or Lee Bass at 374-0404/872-1096. Meetings are held on the second Tuesday of each month in the Mississippi Power Company Biloxi District Office auditorium at 6 p.m.

Bay-Waveland Yacht Club presents fifteenth Mystic Carnival Ball

For a few magical hours, the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club was transformed into a Royal Court when the Mystic Carnival Ball was held on Saturday night, February 4. Mr. William Goodell and Mrs. Harold (Ilene) Spencer reigned over the festivities.

Captain of the ball was Verna Brennan and co-captain, Patricia Lanham assisted by Lake Gaudin.

Commodore and Mrs. Randolph Bourgeois, Vice-Commodore and Mrs. Mark Uran and Rear Commodore and Mrs. Rick Eagan opened the pageantry with a stately procession to the royal dais and assisted in choosing the names of the Queen candidates.

The Queen and her Maids were determined in traditional Twelfth Night fashion by drawing six silver and one gold bean from a lovely two-tiered cake borne in by the Royal Baker, Luke Scianna.

Masks added to the merriment while the Court was preparing for their entrance. Members of the Court made a dramatic entrance from behind golden curtains, the Maids in gowns of varying hues and carrying fans of golden feathers and the Dukes with red and gold striped ribbons and boutonnieres of Carnival colors. The King and Queen were resplendent in their glittering royal robes.

The 1988 monarchs, Commodore Basil Kennedy and Mrs. Irwin Cucullu, raised silver goblets of champagne in a toast to the new King and Queen and their Court. The first King of the Mystic Ball, Mr. William Hilliker, was presented to the Court by Captain Verna Brennan.

Marjorie Thomson, president of the ladies auxiliary presented a gift to Verna Brennan to honor her 15 years as Captain of the Mystic Ball.

More than just pomp, however, the ball was also a lively and great party. Master of Ceremonies, Commodore Walter Chamberlain, saw to it that there was merriment and hilarity as he quipped his way through the evening's assignment.

Maids and Dukes of the Court were as follows: Mrs. Walter (Malin) Chamberlain escorted by Al Flettrich; Mrs. D. Joy (Betty) Burnett escorted by Stephen Benvenutti; Mrs. Ruth Chambers escorted by Russell Engel; Mrs. Don (Carolyn) Morrison escorted by John Breeden;

Mrs. Jerry (Marilyn) Kelley escorted by Philip Williams, and Mrs. Russell (Virginia) Engel escorted by John Mason. Floor committee members were Russell Lanham, Joy Burnett, John Eble, Al Green and Milford Lady.

Diamondhead royalties view boaters' parade

On Saturday, Feb. 4, the Krewe of Kamehameha's King Akua Kai XV Curtis Stout and Queen Gladys McCook arrived at the Diamondhead Yacht Club seated upon their royal throne aboard the queen's barge 'Kay Bee' which was lavishly decorated in carnival colors and flying the flags of the king and queen.

Herbert A. Larson and Dot Rickson Hoskins, King Ali'i Honua XIII and Queen of the Krewe of Diamondhead toasted their majesties from the Yacht Club balcony and in turn were toasted by King Curtis who also offered a toast to his loyal subjects.

Leaving the queen's barge, the royal procession stopped at the club entrance to accept the homage of their subjects before joining King Herbert and Queen Dot on the balcony to review the passing of the boats of Kamehameha 'Lazy Bones,' 'Passport,' 'P-Joe,' 'Myrie's

Pearl,' 'Encounter,' 'Beachcomber' and 'Cotton Ball.'

All boats and crews were colorfully decked out in variations of the Mardi Gras theme, 'Boaters Remember.'

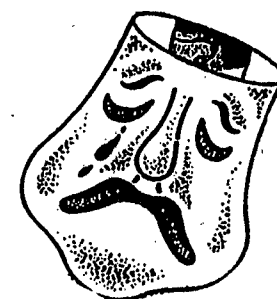

Following, Queen Gladys' attendants Blair James and Matthew Ladner, the queen's grandson presented King Ali'i

Honua XIII and Queen Dot with gifts, and the royal couples were joined by Lady-in-Waiting to Queen Gladys, Lou Lamendola and Consort to the Queen, Bill Malcolm, for a photographic portrait. All then formed a receiving line to personally greet their subjects prior to the post parade festivities.

Dancing, presentation of plaques to participating captains, announcement of land parade winners, songs and skits by Madelain Prima, Johnny Bargar and others were among the many merriments adding to 1989's Mardi Gras memories.

Shands-Ambrose

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting for the January 7 marriage of Angel Marie Ambrose of Bay St. Louis and Morgan Price Shands of Hattiesburg.

The Reverend Peter Mockler celebrated a Nuptial Mass and officiated at the afternoon double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Ambrose of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Drs. B. J. and Virginia Covington of Hattiesburg.

Musical selections were presented by organist Mrs. John McKenna and soloist Ervin Lee, uncle of the bride.

Offertory gift bearers were Brian Glorioso and Coryn Glorioso.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white silk taffeta gown with sweetheart neckline on fitted bodice appliqued with jeweled Alencon lace and Juliet puffed sleeves tapering to the wrists.

The basque waistline gave way to a full gathered skirt with hemline border of scalloped schiffli lace. The chapel length train was attached at the back under a bustle bow and was trimmed with matching lace. She wore a custom designed headpiece of silk flowers and pearl sprays with cascading pearls at the sides and attached waist length veil.

The bride carried a cascade of japhet orchids, white roses, stephanotis, white statice and English ivy.

Denise Duarte of Metairie, La., aunt and godmother of the bride, and Andrea Ambrose of Bay St. Louis, sister of the bride, were matron and maid of honor, respectively.

Bridesmaids were Cathy Treutel of Hattiesburg, Renee Carlos of Laurel, Karla Hogan of Petal and Mary Dodge of Gulfport.

Amber Lee of Long Beach and Jessica Duarte of Metairie, cousins of the bride, were junior bridesmaid and flower girl, respectively. Lauren Morlier of St. Bernard, La., cousin of the bride, was rice girl.

The attendants were identically attired in teal length gowns of emerald green velvet and iridescent taffeta, each with bateau neckline and puffed sleeves. The fitted bodice featured an asymmetrical dropped waist with self-rose of taffeta.

The flower girl and rice girl wore dresses of matching fabric trimmed in white lace.

The bridesmaids carried small cascades of stargazer lilies, rosario alstroemeria, white freesia, dedrobium orchids, statice and variegated pittosporum.

The groom's stepfather served as best man.

Groomsmen were Stephen Champney and Gary Adams of Hattiesburg; Keith Morlier of Chalmette, La., uncle of the bride; James Mulkey of Laurel; and Craig Kincannon of Jackson.

Chris Vignes of Hattiesburg, nephew of the groom, was junior groomsman. Chad Ambrose of Bay St. Louis, brother of the bride, was usher.

A reception followed the ceremony at Diamondhead Community Center. Julie Rutherford of Bay St. Louis kept the guest register.

Mrs. Ambrose chose for her daughter's wedding a long sleeved aubergine dress featuring peplum waistline with jeweled self-bow above a slim skirt.

The groom's mother was attired in a misty green dress with jeweled neckline and pleated skirt with sheer overlay and grey satin etching at the waistline.

On return from a wedding trip to Walt Disney World, Fla., the couple resides in Jackson.

Pre-nuptial parties

A linen shower was hosted by Cathy Treutel and Mary Dodge at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Treutel.

A miscellaneous was hosted by Denise Duarte, Kathy Morlier and Ollie Morlier in Chalmette, La.

A shower was hosted by Mimi Rhodes and Susan Lee in the Rhodes home.

An engagement party was hosted by Iris Easterling in Hattiesburg.

A bridal luncheon was hosted by Birdelle Laverick in her Pass Christian home.

Bible Fellowship Church names Vick new pastor

David Vick of New Orleans has accepted the pastorate for Bible Fellowship Church, 7030 Menge Ave. in Pass Christian.

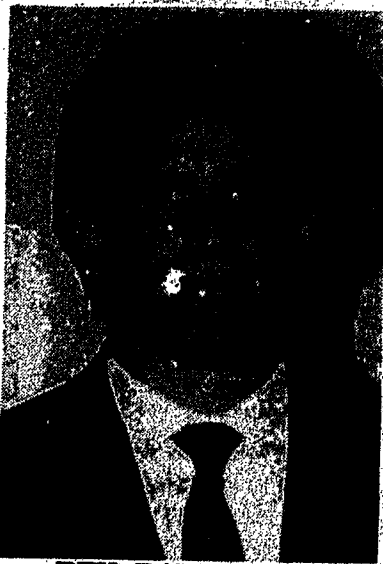

Vick is the former associate pastor/youth minister of First Baptist Church Westwego, La. and is presently a candidate for a doctorate of theology at New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. He also received his master's degree from NOBTS.

"I'm happy to be called to serve at such a fine church, one which teaches sound Biblical doctrine and loves the Word of God," Vick said. "The church has been without a pastor for some time, and I am looking forward to seeing spiritual growth in the community through this congregation."

Bible Fellowship Church is a nondenominational bible church and is of independent affiliation.

Vick said his goal is to establish this church as a place of refuge and hope in Jesus Christ for the community.

REV. DAVID VICK

Vick and his wife Deborah are natives of Memphis, Tenn. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Vick, both of Memphis.

HOW TO ENJOY LIFE ONCE THE KIDS ARE GONE
Connie Podetta, SMH Human Relations Consultant
Wednesday, February 15 / NOON

One of the tricks of nature is that we parents live through our children's various stages, then just as they are becoming well-behaved, friendly, and responsible adults -- THEY LEAVE HOME. There are many emotions that we experience at this time, but mostly there is an empty spot. Life can take on new meaning at this point if we are open to change, content with ourselves, and ready for new challenges. Let's explore these and other issues together.

All classes are free and are held in the Women's Resource Suite.

Call 646-0560 for information or to register.

P & I for ca

BY D.C. HARVILL

By using a special financ technique, the Hancock Cou
Port and Harbor Commiss hopes to pay for projects at P Bienville for which fund might otherwise be difficult obtain or nonexistent.

At its regular meeting M day, the commission authoriz its Executive Director Har
"Buz" Olsen and attorn
Robert Genin to continue wi plans to exercise its option issuing revenue bonds.

Projects that possibly will funded by the bond iss include a railroad car washin facility, a bulkhead for a ne

Attorn has no to mov

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors apparently has no authority to remove sunken boats except in county-owned waterways.

The previous board of supervisors tried to find out who could move the boats, which clog some of the local canals, bayous and boat launch areas.
The present board has obtained a state attorney general's opinion and has found that not much has changed.

Who can move the boat still seems to depend on who owns the waterway, Board Attorney
